The production version of the baby SUV has been revealed in Paris and it's the replacement for the almost archaic C3 Picasso. The headlines include C3 hatch-level customisation, a soft driving experience and an on-sale date of November 2017.

Since it's a PSA product, the Aircross shares its underpinnings with the latest Peugeot 2008 and the Vauxhall Crossland X, as the three manufacturing groups get closer.

Like its new Crossland X sibling, the C3 Aircross is meant to be an extremely practical small crossover, built with an MPV-like interior in mind. Etienne Menant, project manager for the Aircross, called the new creation 'the best of an SUV look but this car doesn't lose any of the good points of an MPV. It's an SUV by Citroen with MPV comfort inside.'

Introduction: 09-2017

Not commercialized at this time (possible future delivery):

AT, BA, BE, CH, CZ, DE, ES, FR, GB, HR, HU, IT, NL, PL, PT, RO, RS, SI, SK

Info: After countless teaser images, and a drip feed of information from Korea, Hyundai's fourth SUV in its European lineup – the Kona – has finally broken cover. And you know what – the all-new SUV shows that Hyundai is really taking its design language seriously these days.

Added a fourth family-sized SUV to its line-up shows most potently how the march of the small family SUV continues unabated. Beneath the 'active lifestyle' bluster of the company's description beats the heart of what promises to be a very interesting rival to the Nissan Juke, Renault Captur, Vauxhall Mokka X, Crossland X or its sister car, the Peugeot 2008.

Elsewhere the interior is lifted almost completely from the Rio supermini, meaning it's familiar and user-friendly.

At the rear, less has changed but the rear lights are now full-LED clusters. Four new colours including this rather eye-searing Orange Pearl can be chosen now, too.

- 128bhp 1.6-litre diesel – 6-spd manual 2wd/6-spd manual 4wd/CVT auto 2wd
- 175bhp 2.0-litre diesel – 6-spd manual 4wd/CVT auto 2wd/CVT auto 4wd
- 161bhp 1.6-litre petrol – 6-spd manual 2wd
